This syllabication booklet was compiled for the convenience of the Government Printing Office and other governmental units in the preparation of official publications and is not intended to change the long-prevailing Office rules governing the division of words.

One-letter divisions, such as the "a" in "a-ban-don" and the "y" in "al-might-y," are not permissible; nor should two-letter divisions, such as "ci" in "ci-gar," "ic" in "bas-ic," and "er" in "har-vest-er," be made except in extremely narrow measure or to avoid wide spacing.

This list will be found useful in securing uniform syllabication in Government publications.

The forms appearing in Webster's New International Dictionary, 1940 edition, have been given preference.

March 1, 1942.
